

James Malcolm

James Malcolm delivers soulful lyrics to an upbeat acoustic guitar.

These unpretentious ambient tunes adapt perfectly to a dimly lit pub or a classy bar or cafe.

Malcolm's sultry voice performs the soulful lyrics of his own songs, or unflinching renders a range of classic covers.

Increasingly in demand, Malcolm performs regularly around Auckland, and still has a strong following on the Great Barrier, Coromandel & Taranaki. His gigs often sell out, and he always receives a warm reception.

He has regular nights at Ruby and Roasted Addiction in Kingsland, where he is a welcome figure, looked forward to by the regulars.

"My sound is a blend of folk, blues, R&B, rock, pop, and classical, without fitting squarely into any of those."

James brings a wealth of many years experience and a wide range of music that can fit a variety of crowds. He won his first singing competition at age six, and spent his childhood singing in musicals and performing as New Zealand's top soprano for five years. From his early twenties Malcolm formed and fronted the rock and R&B bands 'Bare Feet' and 'Kopious'.

James has recorded two albums featuring Greg Johnson, Pearl Runga and Luke Casey from 'EyeTV'. The second album is complete, and he expects it will receive a warm reception on the air waves. There are also plans for music videos and a national tour after the release of this album.

Regular venues that host James include: The Odeon, Skycity, Pog Mahones, The Kingslander, The Kings Arms, The Dogs Bollix, and Roasted Addiction, Ruby, Manaia café in Tairua, Tuatua café in Whitianga, Bond st bar in Kingsland-, often with the addition of percussionist and backing vocalist Rod Lousich, entertaining the crowds with their humorous banter, and enriching the soundscape with their unique harmonies and rhythm dynamics.

Reliable and versatile, James can turn his hand to most things musical, including writing lyrics for weddings and other creative ideas.
